

ALL EUROPE IN A TURKEY HUNT

THE RIVAL BUNDS SECRETLY FIGHT FOR NEW ALLY.

By reaching consequences as to France or her ally, Spanish Navarros, and the English, the new ally, the United States, is being sought by the rival factions of the Turkish Empire.

The Turkish Empire is being sought by the rival factions of the Turkish Empire. The Turkish Empire is being sought by the rival factions of the Turkish Empire. The Turkish Empire is being sought by the rival factions of the Turkish Empire.

STRONG ARM FINANCING.

Then within a few days Grand Vizier Haki Bey had a long visit at Maribad with Baron von Aehrenthal, the Austrian Foreign Minister, and David Bey, the Finance Minister, was cordially received by the authorities at Berlin and Vienna.

The Ottoman Bank refused to advance the money unless it was secured by the national revenue. David Bey then got the cash on his own terms from the Credit Mobilier, but without in any way consulting the French Government.

DANGEROUS MOVE.

Turkey has also been encouraged to believe that with Austro-German guarantees for her continued existence and other assistance she can speedily gain local command of the sea in the eastern Mediterranean, which hitherto has been held by Greece. Add to this Turkey's desire for a long period of quiet reconstruction and it becomes apparent that the temptation to make a virtual alliance with the European Powers is strong.

SPANISH FAMILY QUARREL.

It is understood that a serious attempt is being made by certain imperial and royal personages to produce an official reconciliation between the Infante of Orleans and the court of Spain, for although the latter has been generally hostile to the former, private relations of King Alfonso and his cousin, the Infante, the latter is still officially in disgrace for violating the family statutes by marrying a Protestant. The Infante and his wife are now visiting England.

Nobody is more anxious than King Alfonso to have the Infante restored to favor, but he is powerless to adjust the matter alone.

The King and Queen of Spain have received a letter from the Emperor of Austria, in which he has expressed his sympathy for the Infante and his wife.

MADEIRA'S BREAK SHOW.

It is not likely that many English and Americans will attend the performance of "Ballet de Moliere" which Mrs. Moliere will produce at her Normandy theatre on August 25, though she has informed the English papers that the performance will be given in the same fashion as the "Moliere" which was produced in 1909.

SOCIAL DOINGS.

Mrs. Adair has left her house at Forest Glen, County Donegal, Ireland, for London, where she is staying in London for a few weeks before sailing for America.

Madame Elliott and wife are visiting Lord Lonsdale.

Lady Clonmore, the American military attaché, and Mrs. Clonmore are at Carlsbad taking the cure.

Mr. W. R. Vanderbilt is entertaining friends at Reilly castle. The Duchess of Marlborough and her two sons have arrived at the castle to remain a few weeks.

CHAMPAGNE VINTAGE AGAIN A DISASTROUS FAILURE.

France Will Make No More Loans of Art Treasures—Experts, U. P. in Arms Over 1.8. Customs Order, Threaten Reprisals—D'Annunzio Coming Here.

Special Cable Dispatch to THE SUN. PARIS, Aug. 20.—The cold, wet weather, which has spoiled the wine harvest generally, was especially disastrous in the champagne district. For the fourth year in succession the champagne harvest has failed to cover the growers' expenses. The 1907 crop was exceedingly indifferent, and in 1908 and 1909 it was insignificant.

The normal yield for the 135,000 hectares (about 330,000 acres) constituting the champagne district as delimited in 1908, is 300,000 hectolitres (about 7,500,000 gallons). It will not reach 300,000 hectolitres (about 7,500,000 gallons) this year. The average yield ought to be over twenty hectolitres, or fifty-three gallons, a hectare. This year the average is two hectolitres. Five hundred hectares which have been most favored will yield six hectolitres.

The Henry district reaps twenty hectolitres for its 125 hectares. The Ay district averages one hectolitre a hectare. The Epervier district yields less than two hectolitres a hectare.

The Reims Chamber of Commerce's statistics show there is sufficient stock in the cellars to cover five years complete failure of the harvest, but dealers say this includes all wines, some of which are unsuitable for making champagne. They place the stock at three years supply.

The growers are in a desperate situation. It is estimated that 400,000 francs, or about $600,000, is needed to set the district in shape to continue champagne production properly. The growers are appealing to the Government to provide them with the means to borrow this money on easy terms.

One of the results of the Brussels exposition fire is that steps will be taken soon to enact a law forbidding the authorities to remove valuable works of art from French museums to send abroad for exhibition. Ambrose Rendu, a municipal councillor, who is an art expert, intends to submit a resolution that the city of Paris shall decline in future to lend exhibits unless it is guaranteed they will be housed in an isolated fireproof building. It is certain that the resolution will be adopted at the next meeting of the council. It is understood equally certain that the city of Paris will not lend its art treasures, no matter what guarantees of immunity against loss are made.

A customs executive order dated July 20, commanding French exporters to deposit at the American consulates two patterns of silk, lace, trimming and woolen goods likely to be shipped to the United States next winter, is arousing the greatest opposition among the Paris merchants. President Kessler of the Paris Chamber of Commerce has intervened with the Foreign Minister Pichon with a view to obtaining the cancellation of the order. The demand that samples be accompanied with an exact description of their composition is especially protested against as betraying manufacturers' secrets.

The circular further demands the deposit of as many samples as there are American towns where these goods will be offered for sale. It is estimated that there are 123 such towns. At each manufacturer launches between fifty and a thousand novelties each season, such a deposit of samples would represent a serious tax. French trade journals threaten to agitate for serious reprisals if the American customs authorities maintain their present demands.

POLES SUB THE KAISER.

Held Aloof From Palace Opening Festivities—German Papers Angry.

Special Cable Dispatch to THE SUN. POSEN, Aug. 20.—The festivities with which the Kaiser's castle here, which is intended as a warning to the Poles to recognize Prussian mastery, was opened today began at 4 o'clock this afternoon. At that hour the Emperor William and the Empress, the Crown Prince Frederick William and the Crown Princess, the Prince of Wales and the Princess of Wales, Prince Oscar and Charolotte von Bismarck-Holweg arrived and the programme was started.

Thousands of visitors from many parts of East Prussia poured into the gayly decorated city. At every place throughout Germany the celebration was watched with the keenest interest owing to the uncertain attitude of the Polish population.

The majority of the Poles announced their purpose of keeping aloof from the ceremony, though no anti-German demonstrations were threatened. It is probable that the Kaiser's reception by the public for the next few days will be significantly cool. The anti-Polish press is clamorous that the Emperor should avoid encouraging the idea that it is inclining in the direction of a conciliatory policy toward the Poles.

THE WEATHER.

Aug. 21.—An area of high pressure covered the lower lake regions, the middle Atlantic and the English States yesterday, where it was from six to twelve degrees cooler.

The temperature in the morning ranged from 44 to 64 degrees.

Shower clouds prevailed over the south Atlantic and east Gulf States.

There were also a few widely scattered showers in the Northwest and the central Western States. The pressure was generally low in the North with higher temperatures extending from Montana east to the upper lake regions and to the southwest in the central States to Missouri and Wisconsin.

In this city the day was fair, cooler, with fresh northerly average humidity at 60 per cent., barometer, corrected to sea level, 30.1, wind, S. W. 10 to 15 miles.

The temperature yesterday, as recorded by the official thermometer, is shown in the annexed table.

For eastern New York and eastern Pennsylvania, fair and warmer to-day; showers and sleet to-morrow; light to moderate southerly winds.

For western New York and western Pennsylvania, partly cloudy and warmer to-day; showers at night or to-morrow; light to moderate southerly winds.

For New England, fair and warmer to-day; partly cloudy; showers in northern part to-day; showers in southern part to-morrow; light to moderate southerly winds.

For the District of Columbia and Maryland, fair and warmer to-day; showers and sleet to-morrow; light to moderate southerly winds.

LONDON ON U. S. POLITICS.

Grand Chance for Democrats—Taft Caught in a Roosevelt Trap.

Special Cable Dispatch to THE SUN. LONDON, Aug. 20.—Despite the fact that London papers indicate that some uncertainty exists about the future course of political events in the United States. This seems rather curious, for the whole situation is perfectly clear to even such an ordinary observer as the editor of the Saturday Review. He is a hater of America and all things American. Still he is willing to clear up any doubts that exist about the course of public events and the exact status of the present complications. Here are a few words of his wisdom.

"Neither of the recognized parties stands to-day for anything at all. They have no meaning. Genuine divisions of opinion exist within the parties themselves and are between the radical and conservative sections of each. These sections approximate more nearly to corresponding divisions of the other party than they do to one another."

"The arrangements in the Republican party have not come singly. This is not the fault of the President; it is the misfortune that he came into office when a radical wave was beginning to sweep the States, but he clearly is not the man either to master it or to ride on the crest. President Taft has no intention of heading a reforming party as he is apparently satisfied with things as they are."

"Such reform legislation as recently got through is due to a few of the insurgents, but not to any action of the President that will boom his personal reputation, as every step taken was engineered to boom his predecessor's. Barring accident or some gross stupidity on their own part it would appear that the Democrats must win a great victory in the approaching Congressional elections."

"This being the condition of affairs, Roosevelt's game is a very strong one. He will take the lead of the reform section of the Republican party that possesses any vitality, and it is clear that in some States it is overwhelmingly stronger than the official gang."

"It is clear also that the insurgents will not vote for Taft again. With great astuteness Roosevelt evaded the constitutional third term and left the party to find out that he would be the necessary man. During his absence he kept himself jealously advertised by the slaughter of lions and the sermonizing of Europe and its rulers. Now he returns like Napoleon from Egypt and is able to say: 'What have you done with the party I left so strong?'"

LANDGRAVE TO VISIT U. S.

Alexander Friedrich of Hesse Coming—Cossip of Berlin.

Special Cable Dispatch to THE SUN. BERLIN, Aug. 20.—Landgrave Alexander Friedrich of Hesse is preparing to visit the United States. He is the head of the elder branch of the house of Hesse, which does not exercise sovereignty. He is related to many of the royal families of Europe. Although he is nearly blind he is a man of varied interests. He has many friends in New York and Newport whom he met in London, where he spends most of his time when away from his two castles.

The Landgrave is a gifted musician. Incidentally he is one of the richest non-reigning princes in Germany. While in the United States he will travel incognito. He expects to remain several months studying general conditions. He is a bachelor, 47 years old.

The American passengers on the steamer Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse, on which Mayor Gaynor was shot, were faced to encounter additional thrills, beginning with the narrow escape of the passengers disembarking at Cherbourg and taking the train for Paris. The train narrowly escaped ditching on the original attempt of train wreckers. The passengers who continued the voyage on the ship to Hamburg got an additional thrill from President Montt's sudden death.

Congressman Bartholdt, commissioner to the Brussels peace conference, Gen. Warren Keifer, Justice Gabeon, Clarence McKinley and wife, J. B. McDonald of New York subway fame, Edwin Faust and his son, and the wives of several New York women were among the Americans seen on Unter den Linden this week.

The engagement is announced of Evelyn Griswold, daughter of Putnam Griswold, to Samuel Powers of Putnam, Ill. Putnam Griswold is a leading opera house bass. He has been engaged to sing in New York this autumn.

FIGHT OVER FIGHT FILMS.

Archbishop of Dublin and Police Fall to Stop the Moving Show.

Special Cable Dispatch to THE SUN. DUBLIN, Aug. 20.—Despite a warning given by the police, the pictures of the Jeffries-Johnson fight were produced at a local theatre last night. Archbishop Walsh was the first to take action, sending a letter to the Lord Mayor protesting against the production of the "brutalizing" fight.

The Lord Mayor also received letters of protest from American visitors. He has ordered the pictures to be stopped and requested that it be stopped. The manager of the show, however, defies the police on the ground that they have no authority to interfere. The police have taken possession of the premises, but have not interfered with the exhibition.

BRUSSELS FIRE LOSS.

Lloyds Share of £250,000—Most of the Jewellery Intact.

Special Cable Dispatch to THE SUN. LONDON, Aug. 20.—The leading underwriter of Lloyds returned to London today from Brussels, where he went to inspect the losses occasioned by the fire in the Brussels International Exhibition. He stated that the loss to Lloyds will be £250,000, which is a very heavy loss.

He says most of the jewellery stored in the safes is practically intact with the exception of the pearls, which were slightly discolored by the fire.

The Orion, launched yesterday for British Navy, before Spanish Royalty.

Special Cable Dispatch to THE SUN. LONDON, Aug. 20.—The battleship Orion, the latest type of Dreadnought, was launched to-day at Portsmouth.

The Orion is 545 feet in length and her beam is 97 feet. She has a displacement of 22,500 tons. She is fitted with Parsons turbine engines. She is expected to develop 27,000 horse-power and will have a speed of twenty-one knots. She has sixteen water tube boilers and will be driven through the water by four propellers. She will carry 2,200 tons of oil fuel and 2,200 tons of coal, which will give her a great steaming radius. She will have a complement of 1,000 officers and men.

The Orion's armament will consist of ten 18.8 inch guns, arranged like the guns on the Lion, along the centre of the ship. She will have three torpedo tubes for 21 inch torpedoes. Other vessels of the Dreadnought type which are being built will be armed with the new 18 inch guns.

LADY OF THE LAMP AT REST

FLORENCE NIGHTINGALE LAID IN FAMILY BURIAL PLACE.

Crowds Gather and Guards Turn Out as Simple Funeral Travels London Soldiers as Bearers—Solemn Services at St. Paul's—Tribute of Royalty.

Special Cable Dispatch to THE SUN. LONDON, Aug. 20.—It was a great disappointment to her countless admirers that the executors of the will of the late Florence Nightingale, the Crimean War heroine, felt obliged to decline for her that last and greatest tribute which England can pay to her illustrious dead—burial in Westminster Abbey. Indeed, so strictly were her wishes for a quiet private funeral respected that only a few casual passers-by saw the coffin placed in the hearse in front of her residence in South Street, Park Lane, shortly before 10 o'clock this morning.

The hour set for the departure of the funeral had been kept secret, but the wireless telegraphy of the street soon spread the word and here and there on the route to Waterloo station crowds gathered and bared their heads as the body of the beloved "Lady of the Lamp" passed through the streets of London on the way to be buried in the little west country churchyard at East Wellow, in Hampshire, with her kith and kin.

Miss Nightingale's love for the soldier and the soldier's love for her were recognized as the hearse passed Buckingham Palace and the Wellington barracks. At these places the sentries presented arms and the guards turned out. At Waterloo station, from which the public was excluded, a beaver party of the Grenadier Guards was drawn up and carried the coffin to the train. The men accompanied the funeral to East Wellow, where they acted again as bearers at the burial.

Numberless wreaths and crosses were sent to the Nightingale home by individuals and societies. A cross of orchids from Queen Alexandra bore the inscription: "To Miss Nightingale, in grateful memory of the greatest benefactress to suffering humanity, who founded the military nursing service in the year 1854 by her own individual exertions and heroism, from Alexandra."

Wreaths were also sent by King George and Queen Mary, Ambassador and Mrs. Whiteley Reid and the survivors of the charge of the Light Brigade at Balaklava. Every hospital in London and many in the provinces sent tributes. There was a chapter of roses and laurels from the International Council of Nurses in the name of 25,000 members of the National Councils of Nurses of Great Britain, Canada, the United States, Germany, Denmark, Holland and Finland. There were floral tributes also from the American Federation of Nurses, from various regiments and from Masonic lodges and nursing institutions all over the world.

A national tribute to Miss Nightingale was paid at St. Paul's Cathedral, where there was a memorial service of impressive simplicity similar to those held in the same cathedral for Queen Victoria and King Edward. Seldom has a more remarkable congregation assembled even in St. Paul's. Fully a thousand nurses in uniform represented nursing establishments in all parts of the kingdom. King George and Queen Mary and all the members of the cabinet were represented. Mr. and Mrs. Whiteley Reid and many Americans were present.

Officers in full uniform wearing medals represented the army medical service. Others also in full uniform represented the Indian medical service and all the regiments which served in the Crimea, while another blaze of color in the otherwise sombre scene was provided by forty old Chelsea pensioners, many of whom are Crimean veterans.

Sir George Truscott, a former Lord Mayor of London, in full civic state, represented Sir John Knill, the present Lord Mayor. Guardsmen acted as stewards and conducted the congregation to seats while the band of the Coldstream Guards played funeral music.

At noon the clergy and choir entered, the latter singing Miss Nightingale's favorite hymn, "The Son of God goes forth to war." Prayers and the reading of psalms followed, and then the choir sang the Litany of St. Chrysostom and "I am the Resurrection and the Life." After the reading of the lesson the congregation, which filled the great cathedral from wall to wall, stood as the band played the Dead March from "Raid," finishing with a roll of muffled drums which swelled in a great crescendo and then fell to a faint pianissimo that could be heard.

Another favorite hymn of the heroine, "The King of Love my shepherd is," was then rendered, this was followed by the benediction, which brought to a deeply impressive service to a close.
